Living and personal expenses may vary. The University of the District of Columbia does not require that tuition and fees be paid prior to registration; however you may make arrangements to pre-pay your fees via the Office of Student Accounts. All rates are based on a nine-month academic calendar and are subject to change.

Health Insurance: All students must maintain a health insurance policy approved by the University of the District of Columbia.

Dependents: Students accompanied by a dependent must account for an additional $3,000 of support for the first dependent, and approximately $2,500 for each additional dependent. Estimates do not include summer tuition.

Financial Affidavit Instructions

Please provide on the opposite page the names, addresses and relationship of each/all individuals funding your education. Academic decisions regarding University admission are determined without regard to financial support; however you will not be eligible to obtain a proper visa without adequate proof of financial support. Remember to keep additional copies of all financial documentation as the U.S. consulate may also require proof of financial solvency.

Proof of financial support may be demonstrated in several ways:

It is the applicant’s responsibility to demonstrate sufficient funding to meet all tuition and living expenses. For immigration and sponsorship purposes, the estimated length of study is four years for a Bachelors degree and two years for the Associate and Master’s degrees.

Sponsored Students
In addition to showing your intent, your sponsor must provide proof of support via the notarized Affidavit of Support for your first year of study. Regardless of living arrangements, you or your sponsor must certify the Living & Personal section of the Affidavit.

Government Sponsored Students
Submit an original letter of support, stating the exact terms and length of the scholarship. This letter must include any restrictions, such as program or duration of study provisions. The financial affidavit is not required.

Assistantships
The original offer letter from the awarding graduate department must be submitted to Admissions. It is the recipient’s responsibility to ensure that proper notification is received.

Note:
- a. A notarized affidavit of financial support from a personal sponsor (parent, relative, friend) that has been certified by a U.S. bank or financial institution. You are welcome to use more than one sponsor however; each sponsor must submit a separate affidavit of support.
- b. A scholarship agency (government, corporation, etc.) stating the availability of funds and the intention to support your educational and living expenses for the entire duration of study at the University of the District of Columbia.
- c. Personal funds: provided you submit documentary evidence of a bank statement from a U.S. bank or financial institution or it affiliate in U.S. dollars equivalent. A statement from your employer certifying that you have been granted study leave and salary support arrangements may also be acceptable.
- d. Assistantships: The original letter from the awarding graduate department must be submitted to International Admissions detailing the nature and duration of the award. It is the recipient’s responsibility to ensure that proper notification is received.
