Re: Incident Reporting

The University of the District of Columbia is committed to providing a safe and healthy campus/work environment for students, faculty, staff, and visitors. This environment includes any facilities owned, rented, leased or occupied for University purposes by the University's employees or students. To minimize accidents, injuries, and illnesses, the University requires that all incidents be reported immediately, in order to assure proper reporting for insurance and legal compliance purposes, to provide any necessary follow up with persons injured in an incident and to correct identified causes to the extent possible. Incidents which must be reported are identified below. At its broadest, the scope of events which should be reported include any incident, event or action which involved unsafe acts or conditions and resulted in personal injury, illness or death, property damage or a "near miss" on one of these categories.

- An employee or student injury or illness that is, or appears to be, job or class related that results in a significant injury or exposure.
- A fire or explosion of any size.
- Damage to UDC property.
- Damage to private property while on UDC property.
- Loss or theft of university property.
- A spill or release of a hazardous substance.
